English Airmen Circled About Zeppelin in Dense Fog in Perilous Fray

Intimation That They Sought Arms Factories at Tyne May Be Significant

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The British east coast was raided today by a German air squad. It was officially announced this afternoon that fourteen persons were killed and fourteen wounded. A Zeppelin participating in the air raid, was brought down and destroyed. The raid occurred between 8:30 last night and 12:30 this morning. The raiding air craft threw incendiary bombs, starting some fires which were quickly extinguished. In pursuing the enemy air craft, British Flight Lieutenant Lord was killed.

Hit by Birdmen
The Zeppelin destroyed was first seriously damaged by gunfire from the allied aircraft and from anti-aircraft guns. It was forced to descend in the channel and was towed toward Ostend this morning under continuous attack by several flotillas of English aeroplanes which pursued the invaders far out to sea.

The news of the raid was flashed across the channel to Dunkirk and British aviators from the French town quickly rose and joined in the attack. The crippled Zeppelin became the object from the sky, the British aviators circling around it, despite fire from the Zeppelin guns until several bombs crashed through the dirigible's frame and wrecked it completely.

Fog Hides Battle
A thick fog overhung the channel, while this most marvelous air fight of the war was in progress. The airmen narrowly escaped collision with one another in circling about the Zeppelin under attack, the fog making it impossible for the birdmen to see more than a few rods ahead of their machines.

Their movements were directed largely by the noisy whir of the propellers.
Flight Lieutenant Lord, the only British aviator killed in the air fight, owed his death to a faulty landing while returning to the British aviation camp. In the fog he was unable to pick a proper landing place and was killed. Advances to the admiralty tonight indicated that the British flotillas suffered no other loss.

Government Silent
While the British admiralty today did not state how many Zeppelins were in the raiding party, Amsterdam dispatches, cabled to the United Press today, reported that five Zeppelins had been sighted off the Dutch coast early today headed in a northwesterly direction. If they maintained their course the Amsterdam dispatches said, they would reach the coast of Scotland. By swinging slightly to the south, the Zeppelins would have arrived off the Tyne district, where some of the greatest arms factories of England are located. In the same region are important shipping works. The government remains silent as to points of attack.

SAFE BLOWERS GET HAUL

MAPLE HILL, Kan., Aug. 10.—Standing off more than 100 citizens, several bandits early today blew the safe of the Maple Hill State bank, carrying with $3,000. A heavy fog aided the robbers. Posses are searching for them.

LOMZA FALLS AND SLAVS PREPARE TO EVACUATE VILNA

Von Hindenburg Given Possession of Four of Five Fortresses Guarding Road to Capital

RUSSIANS READY TO LEAVE VILNA

Unofficial Dispatches Say German Attempt to Catch Fleeing Slavs Has Failed

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Aug. 10.—German troops have stormed and captured the fortress of Lomza, 78 miles northeast of Warsaw, was made at the war office this afternoon. This latest German victory gives Von Hindenburg possession of four of the five Russian fortresses guarding the Warsaw-Petrograd railway between Novo Georgiewsk and Grodno. The fortress of Osowetz is now the only important stronghold delaying the German advance on the railway at the Bielestok junction, 48 miles east of Lomza.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 10.—The Russians are preparing to evacuate Vilna. Dispatches received here this afternoon said the libraries, museums and all relics have been removed.

This news was generally accepted here as meaning that the Russians expect to surrender the fortress of Kovno, or at any rate, wish to save highly prized works at Vilna in case the Germans sweep through Kovno. Vilna lies sixty miles east of Kovno on the important Warsaw-Petrograd railway toward which the Germans are moving. It is the capital of the province of the same name. Unofficial dispatches today claimed the definite defeat of the major object of the great Austro-German campaign in Poland—the capture or utter rout of the Russian field armies.

The Russians whom Von Hindenburg sought to surround in the Warsaw district have escaped the trap. They are making an orderly retreat upon a line reaching in a northwesterly direction from Siedlce, having evacuated Praga.

The temperature changes during the past 24 hours have been small but has risen slightly throughout this section and fallen in the southwest. The highest temperatures reported yesterday were 96 and 98 degrees in the plateau region. In the northern plains states the maximum temperature ranged from 82 to 94 degrees.

La Crosse is nearer to Grand Rapids than any other point on the Mississippi river named, yet the rates to La Crosse are higher than to any point on the Mississippi except south of Memphis, and note that the short-line distance Grand Rapids to Memphis is 690 miles against shortline distance to La Crosse of 316 miles.

At a joint meeting of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Club and the La Crosse Shippers' Association last night the plans of the latter were given permanency and stability by the adoption of the following measures:

Voted to fight to a finish the battle against discriminatory freight rates against La Crosse; pledged themselves to raise sufficient money to consummate the plan.

Carried a motion of Secretary C. S. Van Auker of the Jobbers' club to have a committee appointed to go before the Finance committee of the common council and induce the municipality to take a membership.

Carried motion of Frank Sisson, providing that the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club and the La Crosse Shippers' Association combine, the latter in its new relationship to be known as the "La Crosse Shippers' Association Traffic Department" of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club.

Adopted motion of G. F. Sexauer that the chair appoint a committee, the number to be left to the discretion of the president of the club, to visit all the merchants relative to memberships and participation.

Carried motion to extend invitation to the St. Paul Association of Credit Men to visit La Crosse on September 21, and a committee be appointed to arrange for their entertainment.

That the club endeavor to have ex-President Taft to come to the city in December as the principal speaker at a banquet to be given at that time.

The primary purpose of the joint meeting was to interest the business men of the city in the Shippers' association, to enlarge the membership of the association and to provide a fund of $5,000 each year for three years, $15,000 being the estimated cost of carrying the freight rate fight to a finish.

Two Men Needed

The sum of $15,000 is needed to establish an office here to look after the interests of the shippers of La Crosse—someone to find out where the local shippers pay discriminatory rates. It was pointed out that two men would be necessary to handle these duties, one a traffic man of long experience to argue the cases before the Interstate Commerce commission, the other to check up freight rates.

Messrs. Frank Sisson and Albert Funk, who with William F. Hurtgen, went into their pockets to start the shippers' association, presented arguments to show that the association could fulfill its mission only as a broad civic body committed to the interests of all shippers: manufacturers.

"Eve" has been captured by Sheriff George Boss of Sparta, and she says she is from La Crosse but she refuses to give her name.

Boss's fifth attempt to capture the woman who has been inhabiting Sparta's "Garden of Eden" clad in the raiment of the first woman in the world, was successful this afternoon.

"Eve" was clad in the same dressing cap with the blue ribbon in which she appeared before the car windows of Milwaukee, passenger trains several times. Excitement in Sparta ran high as Boss and Humane Officer Manuel drove into town with the woman wrapped in a horse blanket.

She is a decided blond and says she is 25 years of age. To all questions the girl is silent.

GERMANS TRAP SLAV SQUADRON TRYING TO PENETRATE GULF

Kaiser's Fleet in Supposed Attempt to Aid Land Forces in Taking Riga

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 10.—A large German squadron, suddenly appearing off the entrance of the Gulf of Riga Sunday, is reported to have trapped several Russian warships. Dispatches received here today predicted that the Germans would repeat their attempt to penetrate the gulf and not only destroy the Russian ships but support the land attack on Riga by bombardment of the sea.

Official dispatches from Petrograd, detailing the Sunday sea fight off the Gulf of Riga, declared that Russian ships helped to repel the German attack, strengthening the belief here that several Slav naval units have been caught inside the gulf. The whereabouts of the dreadnoughts of the Russian Baltic fleet is a mystery.

Berlin advices early today were silent on the Russian claim that three German ships were damaged by mines in the action on Sunday.

STATE GRAND JURY FINISHES PROBE OF EASTLAND DISASTER

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The state grand jury today completed its investigation of the Eastland disaster. Its findings will be returned to Judge George Kersten tomorrow. How many were indicted could not be learned, but Maclay Hoyne, the state's attorney, who has been conducting the investigation, said at least nine true bills would be returned. He would not say who was to be indicted.

TURKISH AVIATOR SINKS SUBMARINE

BERLIN, via London, Aug. 10.—A Turkish aviator bombarded and sank a British submarine in the sea of Marmora yesterday afternoon, according to Constantinople dispatches today. PLAN TO RUSH WARSHIPS TO VERA CRUZ AS CARRANZA ADOPTS METHODS HOSTILE TO PAN-AMERICAN STATES AND HOLDS WILSON PEACE PLAN IN CONTEMPT

GEN. SCOTT SUCCEEDS VILLA AGREES TO THE WILSON PEACE PROGRAM

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 10.—General Villa has capitulated to the administration's new Mexican policy. Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the U. S. army, was completely successful in his mission to the rebel chieftain.

Villa rescinded all orders for war levies on foreigners and returned the property of foreign and American merchants of Chihuahua confiscated at the meeting at which Villa was reported to have told the United States to "go to hell."

No more meetings will be held. Scott and Villa with Alberto Madero, Villa's adviser, and Special Agent George C. Carothers, conferred for hours in Scott's headquarters here. Afterward General Scott issued the following statement:

"General Villa has agreed to call off the meeting of American mine owners. He said he would return the stores of the American and foreign merchants of Chihuahua and those American and foreign merchants who had violated the laws would be punished in civil courts instead of having their business houses confiscated."

Villa had called on the mine owners to raise $350,000 "war tax." The entire Mexican situation was discussed at the meeting, and Scott is understood to have told Villa that Mexico must restore peace and constitutional government immediately. None of the conferees would discuss this matter following the conference.

BULGARIA WILLING TO JOIN ALLIES IF GIVEN SERBIAN MACEDONIA

NISH, Serbia, Aug. 10.—Possibility that a Balkan agreement will be reached by which Bulgaria will march against Turkey loomed large this afternoon when it was officially announced that Serbia is willing to make important concessions to Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 9.—(Via Berlin, Aug. 10.)—Bulgaria will send her armies marching against Constantinople in twenty-four hours if Serbia will cede Serbian Macedonia to her.

Vladislavoff, prime minister to Bulgaria, and the man who, more than a year ago today held the destinies of Europe in his hand, made this frank statement to me today. In an exclusive interview granted the United Press, the Bulgarian premier for the first time revealed to the world exactly what Bulgaria demands in the present negotiations, what she asks from Austro-Germans for remaining neutral and what she asks from the allies for driving the Turk from Europe, an operation that admittedly would prove the turning point of the war for the allies. Of equal importance was his reply to the report circulated in European capitals that Bulgaria, having won Constantinople, would demand the Ottoman capital as her prize.

"That fear is groundless," he said with emphasis. "The international, commercial and political responsibilities attaching to a city occupying the geographical position of Constantinople are too great for a nation that must always remain small—like Bulgaria."

"We will fight for but one end. That is to extend our frontiers until they embrace the peoples of our own blood, but that end must be guaranteed to us beyond all doubt. If we are asked to fight alone, we are ready. If we are asked to fight with Greece, Serbia and Rumania in a new Balkan alliance on the side of the allies, our willingness remains the same. To the allies we say: 'Give us back Serbian Macedonia and we will fight in the way we can serve you best.'"

Premier Much Sought
Vladislavoff is the storm center of the greatest diplomatic swirl the world has ever seen. Because Bulgaria holds the key to the world war the diplomatic agents of every great power involved swarm here, their pressure centering upon him.

"Bulgaria is fully prepared and waiting to enter the war the moment she receives absolute guarantees that by so doing she will attain that for which other nations already engaged are striving, namely, the realization of her national ideals," said the premier.

"The bulk of these aspirations lie in Serbian Macedonia, which with its 1,500,000 of Bulgarian peoples, was pledged and assigned to us at the close of the first Balkan war. It is still ours by right and the principle of nationality. When the triple entente can assure us that this territory will be returned to Bulgaria and our minor claims in Grecian Macedonia and elsewhere realized, the allies will find us ready to fight with them. But these guarantees must be real and absolute. No more paper ones can be accepted."

Hopes Not Attainable by Force.
"Unfortunately, our aspirations are not attainable by direct force of our own arms. We cannot go and take the territories which we feel

McNamee Fears Anti-Americanism Will Precipitate Trouble in Vera Cruz at Any Moment

LANSING MEETS SECY. BENSON

War Department in Readiness to Back President's Move with Big Military Demonstration

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—That orders have been sent to all warship commanders of the Atlantic squadron in readiness for immediate service in Mexican waters was stated on reliable authority this afternoon.

CORNISH, N. H., Aug. 10.—President Wilson decided this afternoon to end his vacation at once and return to Washington, presumably on account of the Mexican situation.

CORNISH, N. H., Aug. 10.—Dispatch of a warship squadron to Vera Cruz in response to what was reported to be a request from Commander McNamee at Vera Cruz to protect foreigners is imminent.

There is good ground to believe that the president will direct the warships to proceed before night if they have not already been ordered sent.

Replying to McNamee's request President Wilson sent a long code telegram to Secretary Lansing directing him to confer with Secretary Daniels or with acting Secretary Benson.

The contents of this telegram were not divulged. It was stated, however, that the president's decision as to whether to send the squadron would be formed before night and that the size of the squadron would be left to the discretion of Secretaries Daniels and Lansing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—That the navy department through the state department has put up to the president the question whether or not to send more warships to Vera Cruz was reported on good authority this afternoon. It was said the department did not wish to take the step while the conference with the Latin-American diplomats was pending without the executive's express orders.

Latin Minister Flees
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Guatemalan Minister Ortega and his family took refuge on the United States gunboat Sacramento at Vera Cruz at 9:20 last night, Consul Silliman reported to the state department today.

Ortega, ordered by Carranza to leave Mexico, had no means of transportation at the time, and Commander McNamee, un-

OFFICIALLY REPRESENTED

MAKE "SAENGER'S" A CIVIC INSTITUTION

Let us have pause in the busy day to appreciate "Saenger's"—most of us spell it "Singer's."

Did you ever stop to think that you never sought a service or asked a favor at Saenger's that wasn't granted?

You've used Saenger's landing as a public dock. You've landed there and piled your camping and fishing truck there. You've used his boat house as a public store-house. You've done these things so long that you take them for granted—you never stop to ask permission.

And through it all Saenger smiles and says "yes" to everything. He goes on advising you and yours about the river, warning against danger, telling where the fish are biting. His great knowledge of the river and of water-craft is yours. And if you've the time, he adds a good story to the ready smile that always greets you.

Saenger's is an institution, endowed by Saenger's good nature and generosity. La Crosse should take advantage of it.

This city needs a municipal boat house. It is a necessary complement of our Riverside and Pettibone parks. It should be located at Riverside park. It should be made effective by a convenient low-water channel into Pettibone lagoon.

The TRIBUNE urges this matter upon the attention of the park commission. We suggest that a municipal boat-house be built; that reasonable regulations governing its management be adopted; that it then be turned over to Saenger with an agreement that he shall keep it up and operate it without cost to the city, upon condition that its revenues shall be his own.

In that way a permanent municipal boat-house could be secured with only the initial cost of construction, and in the character of Saenger as shown by his record we should have a guarantee of excellent service—a service involving a sort of personal guardianship of river patrons by one best qualified to render it. Saenger deserves this recognition, and we need the boat-house.

ENGLAND'S WEAK CASE

A consistent foreign policy will bring us to a deadlock with Great Britain like that with Germany. In her last note dealing with our commercial controversy, Britain, while courteous in tone, made no concessions of principle.

Like Germany, she stooped to the argument of legitimate retaliation against her enemy. She is sorry that we are caught between the upper and nether millstone, but pretends that she cannot help it. Germany has pleaded that she cannot give up her illegal submarine warfare because England is "trying to starve her" by an unlawful blockade; England pleads that she cannot give up that blockade because of Germany's "shocking violation of the recognized rules and principles of civilized warfare."

Both ignore President Wilson's declaration of the principle that "a belligerent act of retaliation is per se an act beyond the law, and the defense of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal." Both maintain that it is right to fight wrong with wrong.

England's plea in justification that her blockade of Germany is modeled on the union's blockade of the confederacy in our civil war fails because the blockade of Germany is not effective, as was our southern blockade. The German ports on the Baltic are not closed by it. It is not impartial, because it does not bar Germany's neighbors from trading with her as it bars us. Moreover, the extension of the blockade to shut off those neutral neighbors from the outer world is something no neutral nation can grant. And unless we exert every legitimate effort to prevent such unwarrantable stretching of the laws of nations, neutrals will soon have no rights left that belligerents will feel obliged to respect.

A RAILROAD'S GREAT RECORD

The Pennsylvania railroad during the past year carried 180,000,000 passengers without killing one of them. That is the best record ever made in the United States. It is all the more the impressive when you consider that this system handles nearly one-sixth of the passenger traffic of the entire country. Other big roads averaged 25 to 30 victims. The Pennsylvania has spent a lot of money for mechanical safeguards, adequate inspection and maintenance of equipment. "It is prosperous, and can afford that," say officials of the other roads. But isn't it likely that a good deal of the Pennsylvania's prosperity comes from the very policy represented by those expenditures?

In the past we have found much to disagree with in the attitude of the Rockefellers, but we have nothing but endorsement for the opinion of the scion of the younger branch who hopped off a train here recently long enough to say: "Gosh, this is a bum climate!"

After reading of the prevalence of water-borne typhoid at the fighting front, we are inclined to think the river Bug well-named.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Peace Hymn
(Sung to tune "America.")
God save our land from war,
Grant us a peaceful shore,
God keep us free.
Let us, with hopeful mind,
Bring peace to all mankind,
That brotherhood may bind
All men to Thee.

God save our youth to us,
God save the truth through us
Ideals hard won.
Weh through the ages past,
Shall they be lost at last?
O let us hold them fast
Till war is done.

May we all strive to build,
Even with hands unskilled,
The home of peace.
If its foundation be,
Love, wisdom, charity,
With power to bind the three
Then war will cease.

We know the tyrants' power
Lasts but the briefest hour,
And then is gone.
We know that selfish gain
Means but our brother's pain.
When God alone shall reign
World peace will dawn.

Not in Norah's Line

The topic having turned to the subject of microbes, Congressman Edward E. Brown of Wisconsin recalled the strenuous kick of a servant girl named Norah.

Not long since Norah was about to industriously swing the broom around the parlor furniture, when she was summoned by her mistress.

"Before you sweep the parlor, Norah," said the mistress, as the girl entered the room, "I want to give you some advice about your broom."

"Yes, mum," was the wondering rejoinder of Norah. "That's the matter with the broom?"

"It is this way, Norah," explained the mistress. "A very celebrated doctor says that brooms are full of microbes, so in the future you will have to give your broom an antiseptic bath."

"Shure, an' Oi will not!" was the emphatic declaration of Norah. "Nixt thing it will be massage treatments, an' thin holperdermic injections, an' Oi'm no trained nurse."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

How to Pronounce "Il."

While learned professors may differ as to the correct pronunciation of English, it is a comforting reflection that our language offers no obstacles equal to those which have to be surmounted by students of Welsh. One of Dr. Owen's predecessors in the See of St. Davids who set about learning Welsh as soon as he was appointed told his chaplain that he feared he would never succeed in mastering the guttural "ll." "I will tell you how to do it, my lord," was the reply. "Put the tip of your apostolic tongue in the roof of your Episcopalian mouth and then hiss like a gander."—London Chronicle.

Pat's Information

HOW TO HEAL SKIN-DISEASES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable druggist's get a jar of resinol ointment and a cake of resinol soap. These will not cost a bit more than seventy-five cents. With the resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

A HINT FOR SHAVERS

If you want a refreshing shave, with a thick, creamy lather, try a resinol shaving stick. It contains the soothing, healing resinol medication which makes it especially welcome to men with tender faces.

Wit That Counted

When the young officer, ordered to the front, called on his tailor to get a fresh outfit, the tailor could not forget that there was an unsettled account.

But he felt nervous about broaching the subject.

"I see the enemy," said the young officer casually, "has had a check."

"Lucky enemy!" said the tailor, wistfully.

The young man looked puzzled for a moment and then took the gentle hint. Next day the bill was settled.

Didn't Need a Bath

That worthy man was very pleased. But he began to wonder when another ticket arrived.

Sitting down, he wrote to the bath proprietors as follows:

"Gentlemen: Your first ticket I received as a compliment. Your second strikes me as being rather suggestive. If you send me a third I will take it as a personal insult."

Dangers of Civilization

"This safety first idea is pretty good stuff," said Pennsylvania Hungry, as he sat down in a soft corner of his private box car.

"That's right," agreed Hobo Frank. "Every now and then you read about some guy or other who's been getting drowned in a bathtub."

"I will," George Harrowby turned again to the window. "Ought to have buried the hatchet long ago. Been so busy—but I'll change all that. I'll run over and see him first chance I get—and I'll write to him today."

"Good. Great to see you again, George. Heard you'd shuffled off."

"Not much. Alive and well in Chicago. Great to see you."

"Suppose you know about the wedding?"

"Yes. Fine girl, too. Had a waiter point her out to me at breakfast—rather rude, but I was in a hurry to see her. Er—pretty far gone and all that, Allan?"

"Pretty far gone."

"That's the eye. I was afraid it might be a financial proposition until I saw the girl."

Allan shifted nervously.

"Ah—er—of course, you're Lord Harrowby," he said.

George Harrowby threw back his head and laughed his hearty pleasant laugh.

"Sit down, kid," he said. And the action of nobility, thus informally addressed, sat.

"I thought you'd come at me with the title," said George Harrowby, also dropping into a chair. "Don't go, Mr. Minot—no secrets here. Allan, you and your wife must come out and see us. Got a wife myself—fine girl—she's from Marion, Indiana. And I've got two of the liveliest little Americans you ever saw. Live in a little Chicago suburb—homey house, shady street, neighbors all from down country way. Gibson's drawings on the walls, George Ade's books on the tables, photograph in the corner with all of George M. Cohan's songs. Whole family wakes in the morning ready for a McCutcheon cartoon. My boys talk about nothing but Cubs and the White Sox all summer. They're going to a western university in a few years. We raised 'em on James Whitcomb Riley's poems. Well, Allan—"

"Well, George—"

"Say, what do you imagine would happen if I went back to home like that with the news that I was Lord Harrowby, in line to become the Earl of Raybrook. There'd be a riot. Wife would be startled out of her wits. Children would hate me. Be an out-cast in my own family. Neighbors would turn up their noses when they went by our house. Fellows at the club would guy me. Lord Harrowby, eh! Take off your hats to his lordship, boys. Business would fall off."

Smilingly George Harrowby took a cigar and lighted it.

"No, Allan," he finished, "a lord wouldn't make a hell of a hit anywhere in America, but in Chicago, in the automobile business—say, I'd be as lonesome and deserted as the reading-room of an Elks' Club."

"I don't quite understand—" Allan began.

"No," said George, turning to meet Minot's smile, "but this gentleman does. It all means, Allan, that there is nothing doing. You are Lord Harrowby, the next Earl of Raybrook. Take the title, and God bless you."

"But, George," Allan objected, "legally you can't—"

"Don't worry, Allan," said the man from Chicago, "there's nothing we can't do in America, and do legally. How's this? I've always been intending to take out naturalization papers. I'll do it the minute I get back to Chicago—and then the title is yours. In the meantime, when you introduce me to your friends here, we'll just pretend I've taken them out already."

Allan Harrowby got up and laid his hand affectionately on his brother's shoulder.

"You're a brick, old boy," he said. "You always were. I'm glad you're to be here for the wedding. How did you happen to come?"

"That's right—you don't know, do you? I came in response to a telegram from Lloyds, of New York."

"From—er—Lloyds?" asked Allan blankly.

"Yes, Allan. That yacht you came down here on didn't belong to Martin Wall. It belonged to me. He made away with it from North River because he happened to need it. Wall's a crook, my boy."

"The Lileth your ship! My word!"

"It is, I called it the Lady Evelyn, Allan. Lloyds found out that it had been stolen and sent me a wire. So here I am."

"Lloyds found out through me," Minot explained to the dazed Allan.

"Oh—I'm beginning to see," said Allan slowly. "By the way, George, we've another score to settle with Wall."

He explained briefly how Wall had acquired Chain Lightning's Collar, and returned a duplicate of paste in its place. The elder Harrowby listened with serious face.

"It's no doubt the Collar he was trailing you for, Allan," he said. "And that's how he came to need the yacht. But when finally he got his eager fingers on those diamonds, poor old Wall must have had the shock of his life."

"How's that?"

"It wasn't Wall who had the duplicate made. It was—father—years ago, when I was still at home. He wanted money to bet, as usual—had the duplicate made—risked and lost."

"But," Allan objected, "he gave it to me to give to Miss Meyrick. Surely he wouldn't have done that."

"How old is he now? Eighty-two? Allan, the old boy must be a little childish by now—he forgot, I'm sure he forgot. That's the only view to take of it."

A silence fell. In a moment the elder brother said:

"Allan, I want you to assure me again that you're marrying because you love the girl—and for no other reason."

"Straight, George," Allan answered, and looked his brother in the eye. "Good kid. There's nothing in the other kind of marriage—all unhappiness—all wrong. I was sure you must be on the level—but, you see, after Mr. Thacker—the insurance chap in New York—knew who I was and that I wouldn't take the title, he told me about that fool policy you took out."

"No? Did he?"

"All about it. Sort of knocked me silly for a minute. But I remembered the Harrowby gambling streak—and if you love the girl, and really want to marry her, I can't see any harm in the idea. However, I hope you lose out on the policy. Everything O. K. now? Nothing in the way?"

"Not a thing," Lord Harrowby replied. "Minot here has been a bully help—worked like mad to put the wedding through. I owe everything to him."

"Insuring a woman's mind," reflected George Harrowby. "Not a bad idea, Allan. Almost worthy of an American. Still—I could have insured you myself after a fashion—promised you a good job as manager of our new London branch in case the marriage fell through. However, your method is more original."

Allan Harrowby was slowly pacing the room. Suddenly he turned, and despite the fact that all obstacles were removed, he seemed a very much worried young man.

S'MATTER. POP?" By C. N. PAYNE

Robert Morris—"Financier of the Revolution"

IT HAS BEEN SAID the three very great men of our War for Independence were Washington, Franklin and Morris. In the history of mankind no man ever had a more arduous commission than did Morris in financing the armies of Washington. The credit of the nation was practically valueless, and time after time it was the personal credit of Morris which brought forth the money. The financial means raised from his own private resources made the victory at Trenton possible. When Washington proposed the capture of Lord Cornwallis and his entire army, it was from Morris, the patriot and private citizen, and not from the treasury of the Confederate States from which the money came. Thus Washington's last great victory was made possible, and the long and bloody struggle for National Independence brought to an end. Morris was the first to suggest our present system of National banks—the best banking system that any nation has ever known. He was the first American to send a ship forth flying the Stars and Stripes. Like Franklin he signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. He was very hospitable, and whenever Washington visited Philadelphia he was the guest of Morris. He was ever a moderate user of light wines and barley brews, and opposed Prohibition Laws, which make the many suffer for the faults of the few. For 38 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley-malt and Saazer hop brews which the wisdom of Morris knew make for real temperance. To-day at the home of BUDWEISER 7500 people are daily required to meet the natural public demand. BUDWEISER'S ever-increasing popularity comes from quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

PETROGRAD
PETROGRAD, Aug. 10.—By capturing several hundred camels, carrying supplies to the Turks along the eastern Euphrates, Russian Caucasus troops forced the enemy to withdraw for a distance of several miles.

An official statement today said that after the camel convoy had been taken, Cossacks charged and captured many of the Turks, taking 208 prisoners and hundreds of cattle. Another Turkish contingent was routed near the village of Okhan, the Russians pursuing the enemy in the direction of Dalar. Russian troops on Sunday occupied part of the Tarian Dag ridge.

PARIS
PARIS, Aug. 10.—Asphyxiating shells and high-power explosive projectiles of all calibers were employed by the Germans in a violent attack on the French works in LePreire forest last night. This afternoon's communiqué reported the repulse of the attempts against the French line.

A FALSE STANDARD OF CULTURE

has gained ground in this century which looks upon the bearing and rearing of children as something coarse and vulgar and to be avoided. But the advent of Eugenics means much for the motherhood of the race. Happy is the wife who, though weak and ailing, depends upon Lydia E. Charms for Good Looks.
On St. George's day, Serbian ladies evoke the aid of charms as a means of improving their looks. The girl who wishes a white face places a bouquet of flowers under a white rose tree and allows it to remain there for a night; whereas those who prefer rosy cheeks place blooms under a red rose tree, and in the morning the flowers thus "charmed" are thrown into their baths.

Kind acts are never stepping stones to misfortune.

LETTER CONTAINS SUICIDE'S SECRET

J. B. Warner Cuts Throat with Razor in Trempealeau Hotel when Special Delivery Letter Arrives

TREMPEALEAU, Wis., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—The contents of a special delivery letter which he received early this morning and for which he had been waiting for two days holds the secret of J. B. Warner, 31, laborer, who committed suicide at the William Keef boarding house at 8:30 o'clock this morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

Warner gave his address as Camp Douglas, Wis. He had been here for three days, and had told persons where he stayed that he was anxiously awaiting a letter from home. "It means life or death to me," he is said to have repeated several times. The man bore a worried look and his hand shook as the letter was handed to him this morning.

ARCHIE JOHNSON HERE WITH BRIDE

Archie R. Johnson and his bride of six months are visiting La Crosse friends and relatives, at the present being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Edmonds, 2125 Madison street.

Mr. Johnson left La Crosse six years ago for Peoria, Ill., after being in the employ of The Tribune for some time as an apprentice printer and pressman. With his brothers, B. J. deceased, and W. E., the Peoria Typesetting company was formed, three linotype machines being used the year round setting matter for job offices of Peoria. The enterprise was one of the first of its kind inaugurated in this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who arrived in La Crosse Friday, will remain for several days on what Mr. Johnson characterized as a "delayed honeymoon." Miss Veffie Shemel of Peoria married Mr. Johnson in February. On account of rush business conditions, the couple was unable to make their bridal trip.

W. E. Johnson is still connected with the Peoria concern with his brother.

NORTH SIDERS SEE NEED OF BATHHOUSE IN A BIG TURNOUT

Swimmer Says He Wants to Swim Without Going Several Miles to Undress and Will Wage Fight

INSTRUCTORS TEACH THEM HOW

Miss Grace Hildreth and Albert Wiebrecht Give First of Lessons to Youngsters and Grown-ups

More than 150 persons, residents of the north side, including grown-ups as well as the younger generation, splashed, swam, floated and dived beneath the gently undulating swells of Black river at the foot of Copeland park yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the initial swimming lesson of Albert Wiebrecht and Miss Grace Hildreth, playfield instructors at Copeland park.

Yielding to the popular demand of the swimmers for a chance to demonstrate their aquatic prowess and of the non-swimmers for a chance to learn the art of water navigation, the two playfield directors procured the use of two boat-houses which were turned into dressing rooms. "Bath house or no bath house, we want to swim without going several miles to do it," said a resident of the north side this morning, "but we want a bath house on the bank of Black river, and we are going to put up a big fight to get it."

That the large turnout at the river front yesterday is indisputable evidence that the people of the north side want a bath house and would patronize such an institution if provided for them, was the opinion of a north side resident who witnessed the swimmers in action.

The two boat houses were utilized as dressing rooms. It was estimated that there were thirty girls, about the same number of grown-ups, the rest of the number being made up of youngsters. It is understood that an earnest fight will be conducted, as a result of the turnout yesterday, in an attempt to have a bath house provided for the north side.

Long Envelopes.

When a person has use for a long envelope and none is at hand, two small envelopes will answer the same purpose as well. Cut the right end from one small envelope and the left end from the other, and place one inside the other so that the open ends lap, then paste them at the edge. An envelope of the desired length can be manufactured in this way, and it will look almost as well as a regular long envelope.

What this country needs is less enactment of laws and more enforcement.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Allied forces at the Dardanelles have battered their way through the Turkish trenches for a distance of 200 yards on a 300 yard front east of the Kriethia road, General Ian Hamilton reported to the war office this afternoon. This is one of the most important gains recorded in the recent fighting on Gallipoli peninsula.

CONFIDENCE MAN A MILWAUKEEAN

DENVER, Col., Aug. 10.—Richard Weinman of Milwaukee was the real name of Richard Von Millar, self-styled German count and spy, who leaped from a train going fifty miles an hour last Wednesday to escape exposure for passing worthless checks here. The police today believed that when the full story of the effect of Weinman's gracious personality becomes known his proved local record of women's broken hearts, unpaid hotel bills, worthless checks and society dupes will be found in a dozen cities stretching from coast to coast.

The well-to-do Weinman family employed a Denver lawyer to look after the dead man's interests and ship the corpse to Milwaukee.

COLER GETS FORTY DAYS FOR BITING

Man Who Bit Alfred Weigel and Tried to Do Away with His Life in Police Station Blames It on Drink

James J. Coler, the man who tried to bite Alfred Weigel on the ear on Saturday night and concluded the evening in three attempts on his life in central police station lockup, today began a forty day sentence for assault and battery.

Coler apologized to Judge Brindley in county court for his actions and blamed the whole thing on "drink," promising to "never again." When police arrested Coler and placed him in a cell, he soon had a bed quilt torn into narrow pieces and was found in time to save him from hanging. He then set fire to the balance of the bedclothing. Police quieted him for the second time, but soon saw smoke issuing from the cell windows and Coler was dragged into the station proper while the rest of the prisoners choked with smoke.

Guessed What Donation Was.

A certain usher in a village church had a way of his own of dealing with cases of doubtful charity. One Sunday he came around with the bag to a gentleman of doubtful open-handedness. This worthy, remembering, no doubt, that one should not publish one's good deeds too widely, concealed his donation in his close-shut fist and reached for the bag, whereupon the collector, deftly withdrawing it before he could reach it, said in a stern whisper: "Give it to me, sir. One has just come off my waistcoat."

FORMER VERNON COUNTY COUNTY CLERK SUICIDE

William Brandon Sends Pistol Ball Through Temple at Hillsboro After Life on Lohely Homestead

Losing his mind on a lonely claim near Phillip, S. D., which he was "proving up" William Brandon, former county clerk of Vernon county, at one time prominent resident of Viroqua, and well known in La Crosse, committed suicide at Hillsboro, Wis., today, according to a message received here.

Brandon lived all alone in a log cabin for several months of each year since he has been homesteading on the South Dakota land. Neighbors were few and Brandon was alone the greater part of the time. Upon his visits to relatives at Hillsboro, Brandon showed symptoms of being queer, and it is believed that his loneliness caused despondency.

He was found in a room of the house in which he was staying with a bullet hole through his temple.

SPETTEL-PAPENFUSS

At Holy Trinity church at 9 o'clock this morning, Miss Elinor F., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spettel, 1518 Farnam street, was united in marriage to Mr. John Papenfuss. Rev. Father Reisterer officiated at the nuptial high mass. The couple were attended by the Misses Ida Papenfuss, sister of the groom, and Evelyn Stang, cousin of the bride, and Frank Papenfuss, brother of the groom, and Frank Noll of Alma. Little Miss Dorothy Michel was flower girl and carried the ring imbedded in the heart of an Easter lily. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father.

The bride was charming in a gown of white taffeta and wore a veil arranged in cap effect with sprays of myrtle and lilies of the valley. She carried a prayer book and bouquet of lilies of the valley. The myrtle which confined the bride's veil was taken from the same plant as that which adorned her mother's wedding veil twenty-odd years ago.

Miss Papenfuss was attired in a pale yellow gown and carried a basket of daisies. Miss Stang wore light green and carried a basket of sweet peas. The little flower girl was winsome in a dainty white frock.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers and ferns. Later a luncheon was served to friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Papenfuss will leave tonight for a week's trip, their itinerary taking in Chicago, Milwaukee and the Dells of the Wisconsin. Upon their return they will take up their residence in their new home at Eighth and Jackson streets.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz and Mr. and Mrs. Noll of Alma, cousins of Mr. Papenfuss.

MORGAN PAID FOR MUNITIONS SALE

One Hundred Millions Reaches New York from England Closely
Guarded

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Unheralded but accompanied by a squad of silent men whose hip pockets bulged suspiciously, a long steel car slid into Grand Central station here today and stood unnoticed among the hurrying thousands.

In the car was $100,000,000 in gold.

Shortly after it arrived the gold was quietly transferred to motor trucks and, still accompanied by the squad of silent men, taken to the United States sub-treasury, where it was placed to the credit of J. P. Morgan.

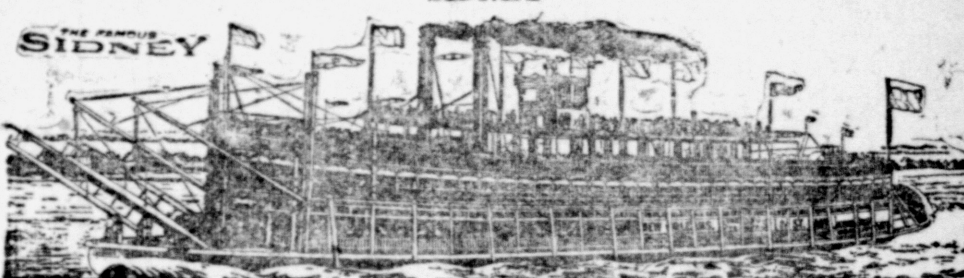

It was the first direct shipment of gold to this country from England since the war broke out, and it paid for the ship load after ship load of arms and ammunition that have left these shores or British ports.

Strictest secrecy was observed regarding the shipment. The bullion was shipped from England on Canadian ships and escorted by Canadian guards to the border, where express guards took it to Bangor, Me., and thence to New York.

America's Treasure.

The treasury of America lies in those ambitions, those energies, that cannot be restricted to a special favored class. It depends upon the inventions of unknown men, upon the originations of unknown men. Every country is renewed out of the ranks of the unknown, not out of the ranks of those already famous and powerful and in control.—Woodrow Wilson.

DECLARE HIMSELF PRESIDENT DEFY WILSON HIS PLAN

der instructions from Washington, offered him refuge on the Sacramento.

The department was informed that serious food riots had broken out at Durango.

To Back Policy With Force WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Steps were taken today to back up President Wilson's new Mexican policy with force.

They were naval steps. The border military force was being strengthened but this was gradual. There was border fighting, too, but it was desultory.

The navy's plans developed more rapidly. General Carranza gave every evidence of intending to resist desperately any effort to oust him.

Foreigners, Americans particularly, were gravely threatened at Vera Cruz.

Commanded by Carranza, in charge of the American squadron there, reported the danger. He did not ask reinforcements but it was clear they would be needed if matters grew worse.

No orders were actually issued to any warships to sail for Vera Cruz but it was reported such orders had been prepared, and were ready to be issued at an instant's notice.

In the meantime the battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana made ready for sea, that there might not be a second's loss of time if orders came.

It was said the armored cruiser Tennessee about to leave Philadelphia for Haiti, might join them. Some accounts had it that the tentative orders included the rest of the Atlantic fleet.

His expulsion of the Guatemalan minister, trouble he was known to have had with the minister from Brazil, who was also representing the United States, and his imprisonment and threatened execution of Henry W. Francis, it was thought possible, were studied, with a view to precipitating a crisis. Francis, so far as the state department knew, was in as much danger as ever today.

General Scott, it was supposed, was in conference today with General Villa. It was understood to have been his plan to see Carranza next. How threatened developments would affect this program was uncertain, however.

Watch Latin Allies It was also a question what the result of a clash with Carranza would be on Secretary Lansing's negotiations with the Latin-American diplomats. The impression was that it was likeliest to remove the latter's scruples against American armed intervention in Mexico.

Having gone over the situation in detail by mail with President Wilson, Secretary Lansing said today he had his plans fully formulated and would go into the conference with a completed program. He added that he was hopeful of reaching an agreement with the Latin-Americans at one more sitting.

War Horses Ready Neither the war nor navy department was taken by surprise by Mexican developments, it was stated. Anticipating that the president's change in policy would precipitate an outbreak, it was said they had all plans made for backing up the administration with a big naval and military demonstration.

Must Protect All The Vera Cruz situation was considered especially acute in view of the American obligation to protect all nationalities of foreigners and particularly to assure the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers against violence as they leave the country.

It was thought possible Acting Secretary of the Navy Benson might at the last moment change his orders to the commander of the Tennessee, about to leave Philadelphia and send it to Vera Cruz instead of Haiti.

It was understood the administration's plan calls for one more warning to the factional leaders to get together and a broadcast appeal to the Mexican people to unite in establishing a constitutional government.

Should Carranza reject this proposition, it was said the United States would outlaw him, force the compromise leaders to establish a capital outside his territory, and ask the world powers to move their embassies and legations to this center.

The next step will be to declare an arms embargo against the Carranzistas and to arrange with American bankers to provide the new government with funds to establish itself by military and civil means.

The Carranza junta here issued a sarcastically worded denial today of the recent statement by Consul Canada, at Vera Cruz that eight Mexican vessels were preparing to embark troops which were arriving in the city from the interior and an earlier assertion by the consul that the first chief took refuge some time ago in the fortress of San Juan de Ulua.

ALLIES TO DIGTATE PEACE TERMS TONE OF BRITISH PRESS

Papers Resent German Chancellor's Statement His Country Is Fighting for Freedom of Seas

STATEMENT TO U. P. CAUSE

"Germany Beginning to Feel Effects of War of Attrition" Says the London Globe

BY ED L. KEEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The allies will fight to the finish and make peace only on their own terms.

This was the general tone of the angry comments that came from the British press today on the message sent to the United Press yesterday by the German chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, regarding the terms on which the Kaiser would consent to peace negotiations.

London afternoon newspapers, like the morning papers, resented the chancellor's statement that Germany was fighting for the freedom of the seas, and they echoed the assertion that the allies, not Germany, will dictate the terms of peace at the end of the war.

"Germany is beginning to feel the effects of a war of attrition and the strangle hold of the British navy," said the Globe. "It would suit Germany well to make peace before the breaking point was reached, but it would not suit us. Our sword will not be put aside until Prussian militarism is broken once for all, and the world delivered of its nightmare."

The Westminster Gazette commented as follows: "It is for the American people to decide whether the trident is safer in our hands or in the hands of the people whose normal policy is exemplified by the sinking of the Lusitania and the submerging of unarmed merchantmen and fishing boats. We have a hundred years of good behavior to place against six months of German frightfulness."

The Daily Telegraph in a column editorial, said in part:

"Bethmann-Hollweg's formula, in his message to the United Press, was intentionally so conceived as to cover anything from the lowest terms Germany considers she could make without owning herself beaten to the utmost limits of extortion. This will scarcely commend itself to neutral influences seeking the basis for pacificatory action in definite and just terms."

"Bethmann-Hollweg's difficulty is indeed hopeless. He knows neutral opinion is generally unfavorable on one point, viz: the relinquishment of Belgian territory and full compensation to Belgium. He also knows that the ruling classes in Germany, especially the now omnipotent military caste, would now regard abandonment of Belgium as an admission that Germany's appalling and ruinous losses were endured in vain."

"The plain truth is that Germany cannot propound any peace terms which neutrals could approve. The allies are fighting to secure justice, liberty and exact retribution. Unless Germany will yield these points voluntarily the peace she gets in the end will be such as seems just and polite to her conquerors. The making of peace overtures is a hopeless task for a government which proved to the world that its pledged word is a thing of nought."

The Times also devoted a column of editorial to the same theme, remarking on the fact that the Kaiser did not comply with the request for a message to United Press papers.

Commenting on the recent alleged German peace propaganda in the Dutch newspapers, the Times said: "Germany's object, doubtless, is rather to shift the blame for a prolongation of the war on the allies than to excite any real peace movement among responsible neutrals."

The Daily News in its introductory comment, refers to "the enterprising American attempt to draw out the Kaiser and secure a first-class piece of copy" and has the following to say editorially:

"To tell America that what Germany is really fighting for is to guarantee to all nations the freedom of the oceans and free world-wide commerce is a masterpiece of impudence. Put the resentment of certain American commercial interests at the highest and it still remains quite incredible that they should lend themselves to any proposal to destroy British naval supremacy for the benefit of Germany."

The Daily News then referred to the latest attempt by a German submarine to torpedo the Cunard liner Orduna, while she was enroute to New York and added:

"It is not such hands as these that any neutral can seriously desire to see the guardianship of the freedom of the seas."

GEORGE TRENTWITH BORNE TO CEMETARY

Firemen and Postal Men Act as Pallbearers for Co-worker in Last Rites for Their Friend

Sorrowing friends yesterday afternoon followed the body of George E. Trentwith, former United States postal service employee and fireman, who died of a complication of diseases at a sanitarium at Manitowoc Saturday, to its last resting place in Oak Grove cemetery. The remains were borne to the grave by six former co-employees: Will McDonald and John Wright, firemen at central station; Joseph F. Kreutz and August F. Schmidt, mail carriers, and Will Fladlien and John F. Davis, mail clerks.

Mrs. Emma Trentwith, his mother, alone survives the decedent.

George Trentwith was born thirty-eight years ago in Austin, Minn., spending most of his life here. He was educated in the city schools, and when a young man entered the service of the city as a fireman at central station. For a short time he was at station No. 5, but later was transferred to the central station. While engaged as a fireman, he took the civil service examination for mail clerk, entering the service soon after successfully passing the requirements.

Postal Clerk Ten Years He was connected with the postal service for a period of ten years, and would have been thirty-nine years of age had he lived until next October. He worked as a mail clerk in the local postoffice for three years, when he was transferred to the position of carrier because of his delicate health. His health failing him four years ago, he went to Colorado, returning in the spring of 1913 to resume his duties in the postoffice. He drove the parcel post automobile when it was first put into service March 1, 1913, and worked for period of fourteen months when he was again forced to give up his work.

Mrs. Trentwith, who had been spending the past year in Dakota, was enroute home when she received a telegram at Hastings, Minn., informing her of the grave condition of her son. She arrived in La Crosse Wednesday night and went directly to the bedside at Manitowoc. Mrs. Trentwith arrived in La Crosse with the body Sunday morning at 6 o'clock.

BILL TO FASTEN ROADS' EXPENSE ONTO TAXPAYERS

Sidetrack Depression Bill Now Disclosed as Special Legislation for Milwaukee Road in Emergency

NORTHWESTERN'S POLICY LIBERAL

Competitor's Scheme to Make Public Pay Its Bills Will Be Fought Hard in the Senate

MADISON, Aug. 10.—The senate this morning put the bill, which will force municipalities to pay a portion of the cost of private side-track depressions up to the governor, by concurring in the assembly amendment to bill No. 445S by a vote of 16 to 9.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 10.—The side-track depression bill, known as senate bill 445S, has developed into an issue which overshadows everything else outside of appropriation bills before the legislature in its closing week. The bill has been passed in the senate to provide that the railroad commission may appropriate the cost of reconstructing side-tracks to industrial plants which may become disarranged as the result of a depression of the main line.

When the bill came to the assembly last week, it applied only to projects ordered but not commenced. After amending it to include projects that have been ordered but not completed, the bill went through the assembly by the narrow margin of 44 to 32.

It has now developed that the bill is being pushed for the exclusive benefit of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company. It has just come to light that Elliott Nash, representing the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, appeared before the senate committee on corporations in opposition to the bill, and the principle involved of saddling a portion of the expense on the municipality. Members of the legislature were somewhat taken aback when informed of this.

Investigation shows that whereas the St. Paul road has fought the efforts of the city of Milwaukee to force the separation of grades through the railroad commission for years, after six years' fighting it succeeded last January in forcing the city, under the terms of an amendment slipped into the railroad commission law in 1909, to pay 25 per cent. of the cost of the main line depression. They are now attempting to force the city to pay a portion of the cost of rearranging side-tracks.

The action of the Northwestern is in sharp contrast to this. Not only have they not opposed making the depressions and elevation desired, but they have gone ahead and made the separation, and without attempting to force the city to pay any portion of the cost. In addition to this they have settled most of the cases satisfactorily with the shippers, whose side-tracks were interfered with, so that, while the shippers along the St. Paul right of way appeared before the legislature asking that the city be forced to stand a portion of the cost, none of the shippers on the Northwestern rights of way put in a protest.

After making the improvements demanded by the public, without protest, it now appears that the Northwestern is to see its rival, the St. Paul, which has been delaying the matter for years, rewarded for its delay by having the city forced to bear a portion of the expense.

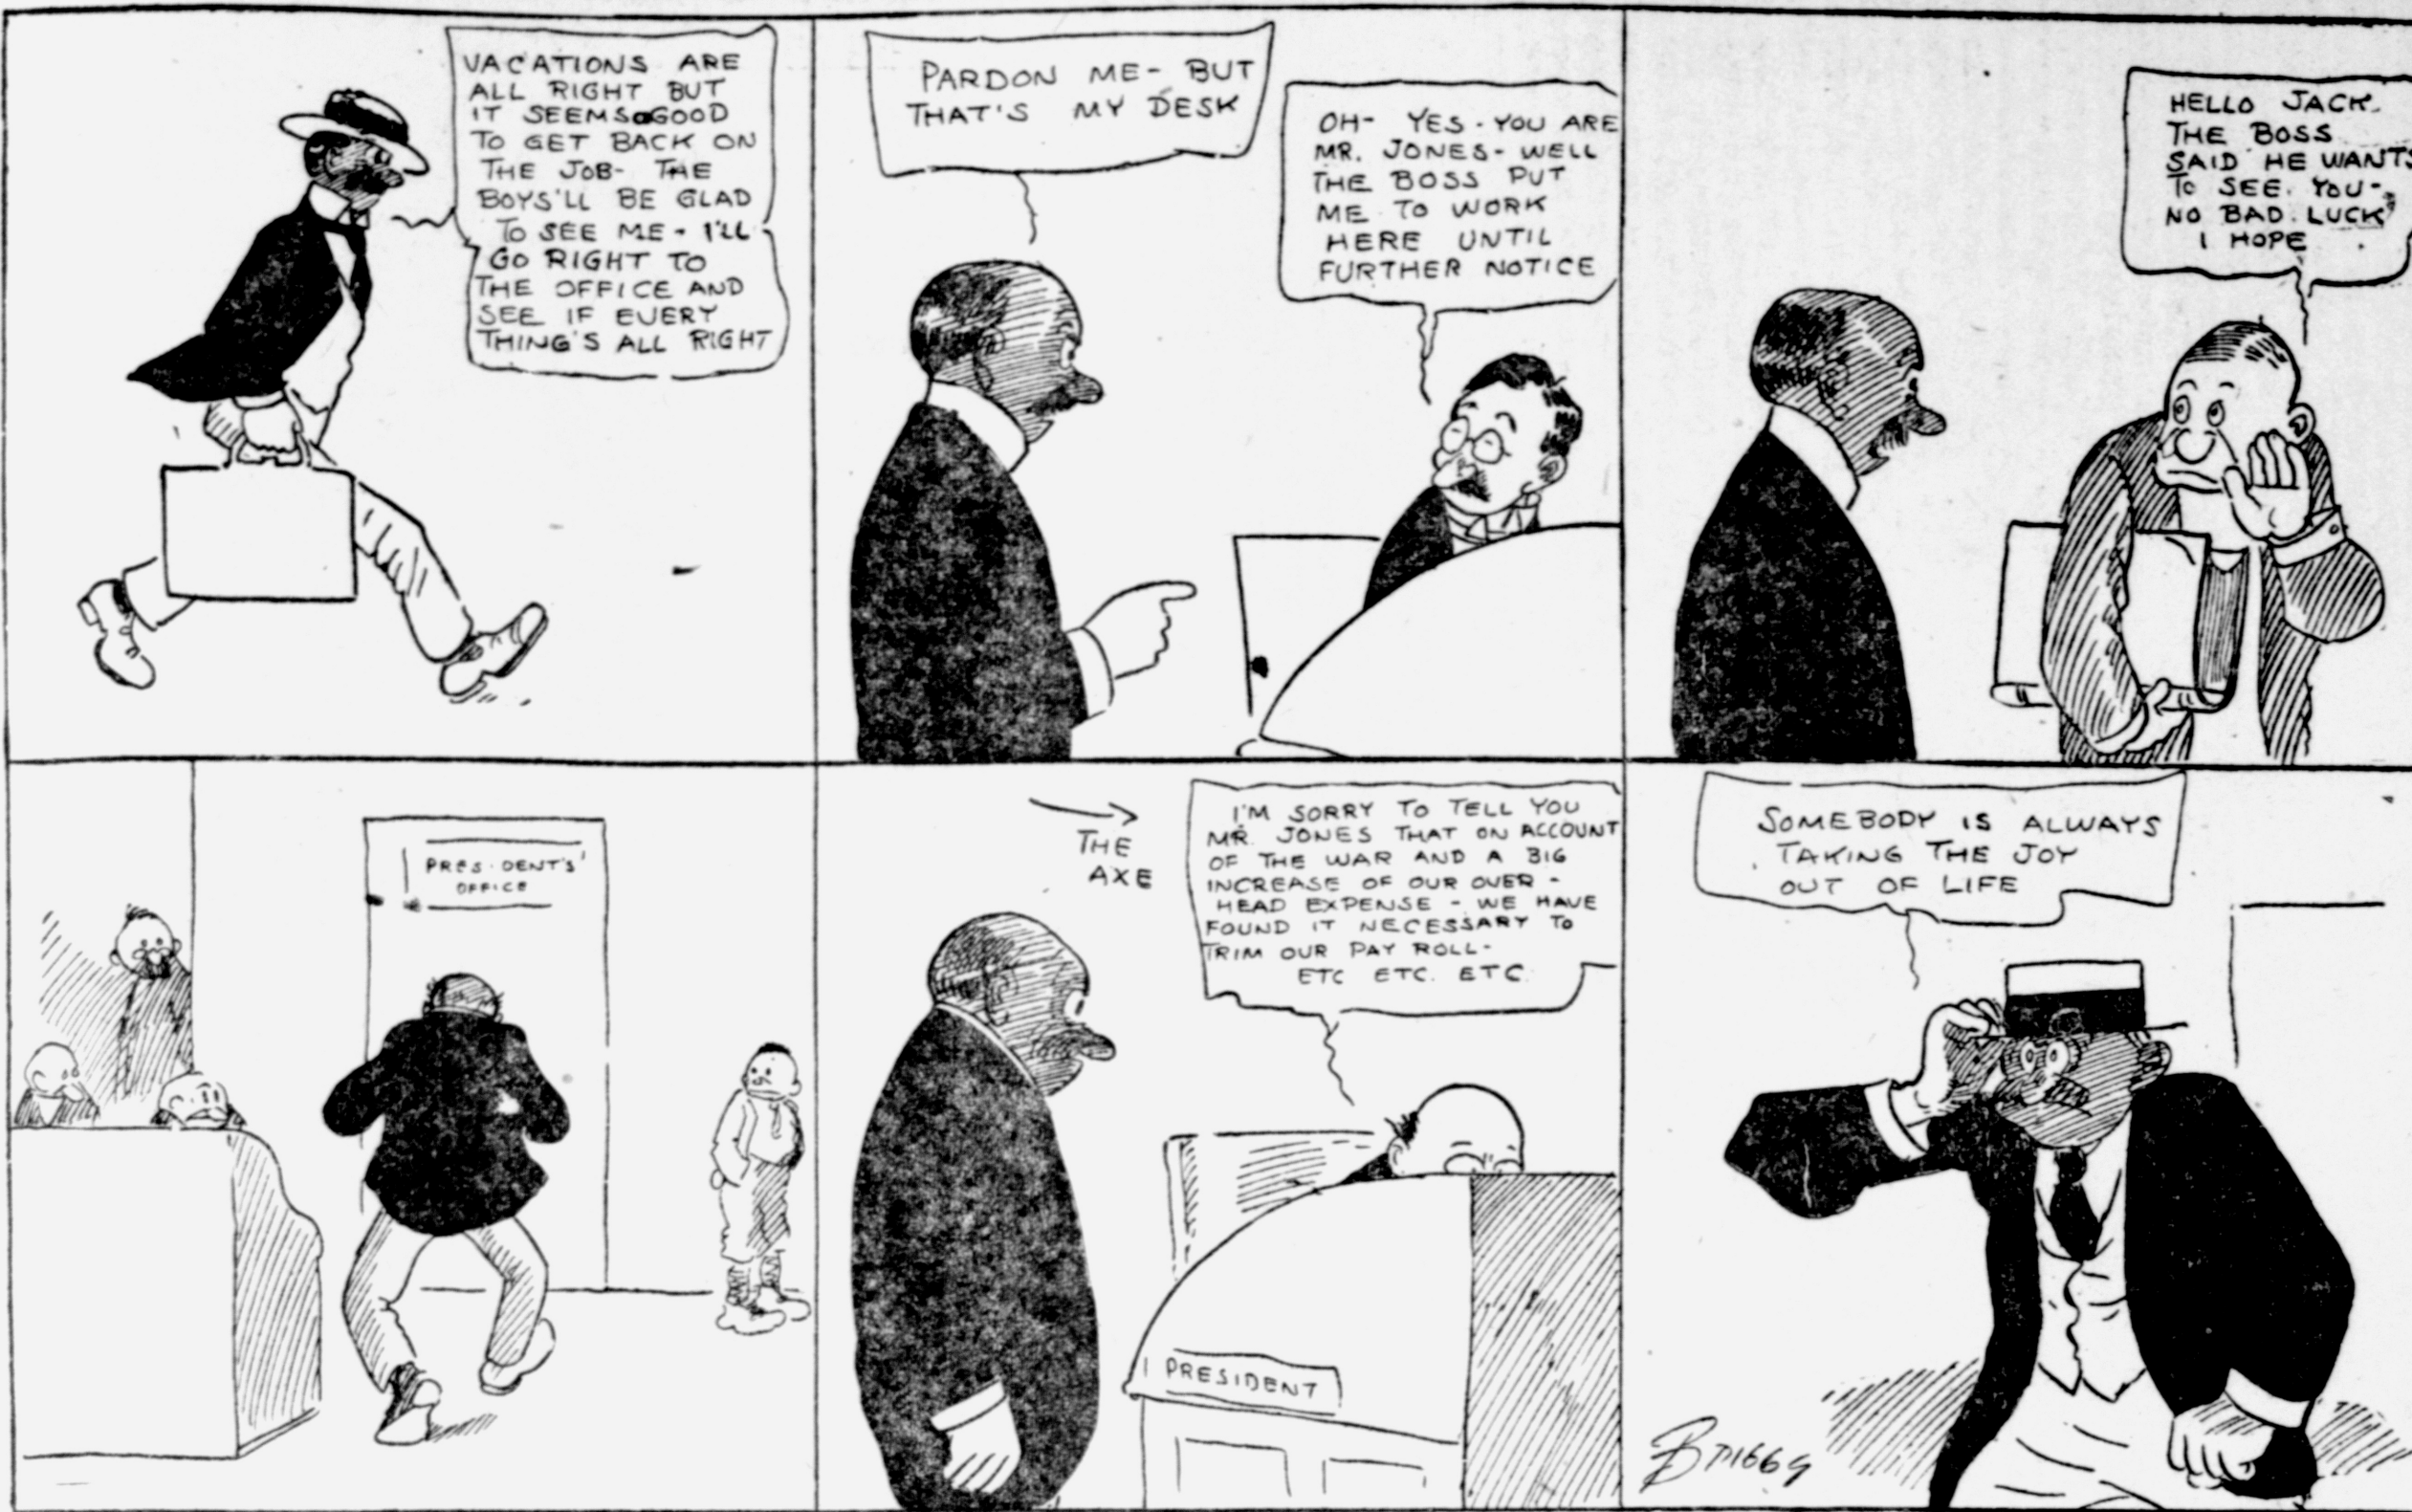

The passage of the bill 445S is represented by representatives of many cities in the state as establishing an unheard of policy with respect to imposing an obligation upon the public to pay for the cost of reconstructing side-tracks. They contend that the entire cost should be borne by the railroad company, just as the railroad company bears the cost of any other improvement demanded for the safety and protection of the public.

The bill comes back to the senate today where it is expected that the assembly amendment will not be concurred in. The opportunity will then come in the assembly to kill the bill, or to send the bill to conference, it will then have to be passed favorably in both houses again.

While the situation at Milwaukee is the immediate one which is affected, there being over a million dollars at stake, which

THE GOOD JUDGE TRIES TO MAKE PEACE

ALL argument stops when a man gets the taste of the Real Tobacco Chew. The taste and comfort it gives him tells him that the Real Tobacco Chew is right. Many men are telling their friends about the clean, small chew that satisfies.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!!
W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)

TURKS ORDER REMOVAL OF SIGNS WRITTEN IN HOSTILE CHARACTERS

BY HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 10.—(By Courier to Dedeagatch, Thence by Cable.)—In a determined effort to eradicate from the Ottoman empire all traces of things European the Young Turks have just ordered the removal of all business signs written in Latin or Roman characters. Only Turkish characters can be used hereafter in signs and advertisements. The same order applies to druggists' prescriptions.

The order became effective yesterday and Constantinople arose today to find herself the greatest labyrinth of mystery in the world. Two-thirds of the city's 1,500,000 inhabitants are Greeks, Armenians, Jews and natives of other countries. They have a slight speaking knowledge of the Turkish tongue, but know little of the Turkish printed characters. Strangers found it exceedingly difficult to get about and the average citizen could not tell you from its sign whether a building harbored a hotel or stable.

The removal of the European language signs continued all day yesterday, several hundred men being employed. No line of business was exempted. Even doctors and lawyers were compelled to take down their brass plates and substitute Turkish characters or go without. Most of the foreign professional men who could not read their own names, printed in Turkish, chose the latter course.

American firms were hard hit. Standard Oil, the Singer Sewing Machine company and typewriter concerns had thousands of signs and advertisements all over the city printed in English and west European languages. In some instances they saved their signs by obliterating the English words and leaving only pictures of sewing machines or typewriters on their posters.

The pharmacists made vain efforts to convince the government that the carrying out of the order would endanger the health of the community. They pointed out that all medical forms had been in the Latin language for centuries, and said it would be impossible to overturn the precedents of centuries. The government in reply invited the pharmacists to keep the prescriptions and their bottle labels in Turkish or so out of business.

Another section of the order prohibited children from wearing sailors caps, bearing on their band the name of any battleship save one in the Turkish navy.

German and Austrian merchants obtained one slight concession. They were permitted to have their signs written in the language of their countries provided Gothic and not Roman or Latin characters were used.

COLORADO STRIKE LAW WORKS WELL

Measure Requires That the State Commission Have Notice of Intended Action

DENVER, Col., Aug. 10.—Colorado suddenly awoke today to the fact that it has the most drastic strike and lockout law in the United States. The mere act of a local cracker company reducing wages and its two hundred employees thereupon striking revealed the operation of the state industrial commission law enacted by the last legislature.

The commission promptly ordered the company to restore the old wages and the workers to return to their places.

Employees may not strike and employers may not lockout or reduce the wages of their workers. Both sides must give the commission 30 days' notice of their intentions. If the employers or employees do not accept the commission's recommendations after its investigation then either side may take any contemplated step. But the theory of the law is that neither side will dare oppose public opinion supporting the commission's findings.

Union leaders pointed out today that the employers will have thirty days to import strike-breakers and private armed guards if the employers have made up their minds from the beginning to refuse the workers' demands. The law is certain to be the subject of discussion at the next legislature. Its enactment was inspired by the recent Colorado labor wars.

Innocence Rewarded.
"I hope," said Mrs. Cornstossel, "that you'll be careful not to take any counterfeit money while you're in town." "I never bother about suspectin' my fellow men," replied her husband. "If I study out a piece of counterfeit money it's impossible to offer it to anybody without my hand tremblin', but if I pay no attention it's about as easy to pass it on the next fellow as it was to pass it on me."

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

If the Phils don't play the corners pretty carefully today and tomorrow there's going to be a new tenant in first place plat. Uncle Wilbert Robinson's Superbas seem to have their goods all packed and ready to move. The Cubs-Superbas game—something ought to be said about it but very probably Bresnahan didn't leave anything unsaid. Suffice it to remark that the Devilish Dodgers made 23 hits, six of which went to George Cutshaw.

The Tigers had an off day—they had to play overtime to beat the Nationals. Ordinarily it can be done in nine innings.

The Red Sox, White Sox and Tigers all won, leaving the race just as muddled as it was before.

Connie Mack has dug up another green one. Its name is Nabors, and it got roundly trounced by the White Sox yesterday.

Hal Chase drove out a homer with the bases full and the Pittsders were sent on their way to Baltimore with a 6-2 defeat ringing in their ears.

John J. Evers got back in the game after a three-day layoff. Johnny didn't get a hit, score a run or steal a base. But the Braves won.

Eddie Plank shut out the Baltimore Federals twice in the same series. That may be taken either as roses for Eddie or dogweed for Knabe's clan.

The weather man interfered with a neat little chugging duel between Ray Caldwell and Willie Mitchell at the Polo grounds. The count was one all when the skies began to sob.

Makes Collar-Buttoning Easy.

A clever little thing in the way of a collar button is the invention of Charles Formage of New Rochelle, N. Y. The button is an ordinary stud of solid metal, but has a tiny screw hole in its center. Into this a tapering peg is screwed. This goes through the buttonhole of a collar without any difficulty or breaking of nails or swearing on the part of the owner. When the collar is on the peg is unscrewed and the button remains.

Chicago Grain Review.
CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—All grain markets were expected today to show marked declines as the result of the bumper crop forecast from the agricultural department yesterday. The effect was not as marked as expected. While there was a rush to sell at the start, other factors entered the market and there was a rapid recovery from the early weakening.
September wheat opened at $1.06 1/4, 5-8c under Monday's close and went to $1.05, but soon back to 106 3/4. December opened down 7-8c, fell an additional 1-8c, but later rose to 107 1-8. Higher foreign cables, resting orders and promised rains all helped to keep up prices.
September corn opened down 1-4c but later went down to 74 1/2-2c, 1-4c over Monday's close. December followed.
Oats was the strongest of the grains. September opened down 1-8c but later went to 39 1-2c, 5-8c over last night's close. December at noon was 1-4c higher than Monday's close. Provisions shaded off slightly.

Fishermen's Guide.
The pilchard fishermen of Cornwall watch the movements of gannets; for as soon as they see a flock they know that a shoal of pilchards is at hand and get their nets ready. By their flight they know whether the fish are at the surface or deep down.

Reason for Hand-Shake.
Hand-shaking has a military origin. In early times when soldiers met, to convince one another that no harm was intended and that they held no weapons, they extended and grasped each other's hand as a token of good will.

Quite a Possibility.
A man met another, and while not remembering who he was, but feeling certain that he was acquainted with him, held out his hand and said: "I am sure I have met you somewhere."

"No doubt," was the reply. "I have been there often."

Hardly to Be Expected.
The legislature was investigating one of its members. "I presume," suggested the reporter to the investigator, "that you will leave the case in the hands of posterity." "No such luck," responded the statesman.

Black Foxes Hard to Raise.
Cannibalistic tendencies developed in captivity by that valuable fur-bearing, the black fox, have proved a serious drawback to the fox-raising industry of Prince Edwards island, where 300 farmers are engaged in the business. Pups are frequently eaten by their parents, and there are also instances of females being killed and partially eaten by their mates.

How They Talk.
A young man has filed a divorce action because his wife cannot cook like his mother used to. Most young men who talk that way have been raised in an orphan asylum.

How to Win.
This is an age of specialization, my boy, and the only men who succeed in a big way are those who pick out some particular line of work and live with it until they get to know more about it than most other fellows. Concentration, consistent and persistent effort in one direction is the surest road to success. You'll never win in a big way—except, accidentally—if you scatter your energy.—Leslie's.
